hmm i've noticed that each time you reply to a post you make a new topic or something called RE: blahblahblah, is it supposed to be like that? cant you just make it like other forums?

I didn't write this forum software - it's FireBoard and is the best forum software for the platform that this site is built on (Joomla).

It's not like forum software that you're used to, which is usually PHP BB or vBulletin.

With the "Re:..." - that's just the default subject of your post, within the same thread (topic), so it's not a new topic. You can change the subject if you like before you post, but it will still be part of the same topic.
