Fun new community-building features
Posted by admin - 2008/03/04 22:53

_____

Two new features have been added.

You can now upload an image for your profile from the My Profile link on the left side, and this image shows both in your forum posts, and in your reviews.

When you're submitting a review, you have the option of being notified when a forum message is posted on the product. Since the message may be a question or comment on your review, this is a great way to stay connected to your reviews.

============================================================================

Re:Fun new community-building features
Posted by admin - 2008/03/04 22:58

_____

Now I just have to get a good mugshot of myself...

============================================================================